What Are We Fighting For?

A PATRIOTIC STORY FROM FLANDERS. The following are extracts from a letter received by a young American lady from her fiancée, a French cavalry officer. It was written as he lay dying in Flanders and with it she received the news of his death.

The writer, after describing how he was wounded in the chest during a cavalry charge and temporarily lost consciousness, goes on to say:—

"There are two other men lying near me, and I do not think there is much hope for them either. One is an officer of a Scottish regiment and the other a private in the Uhlans. They were struck down after me, and when I came to myself, I found them bending over me, rendering first aid. The Britisher was pouring water down my throat from his flask, while the German was endeavoring to staunch my wound with an antiseptic preparation served out to their troops by the medical corps. The Highlander had one of his legs shattered and the German had several pieces of shrapnel buried in his side.

"In spite of their own sufferings, they were trying to help me and when I was fully conscious again the German gave me a morphine injection and took one himself. His medical corps had also provided him with the injection and the needle, together with printed instructions for their use. After the injection, feeling wonderfully at ease, I spoke of the lives we had lived before the war. We all spoke English and we talked of the women we had left at home. Both the German and the Britisher had only been married a year.

"I wondered—why I suppose the others did—why we had fought, each other at all. I looked at the Highlander, who was falling asleep exhausted, and in spite of his drawn face and mud-stained uniform, I looked the embodiment of freedom. Then I thought of the Tricolor of France and all that France had done for liberty. Then I watched the German, who had ceased to speak. He had taken a prayer-book from his knapsack and was trying to read a service for soldiers wounded in battle. And while I watched him I realized what we were fighting for. . . . He was dying in vain, while the Britisher and myself, by our deaths, would probably contribute something toward the cause of civilization and peace."

The letter was found at the dead officer's side by a Red Cross file and forwarded to his fiancée.—The Guardian, (London, Eng.)

THE NATIONAL PARKS
OF THE DOMINION

Following to the Increasing Modern

An annual government publication has recently been issued by the Dominion paper branch of the department of the interior. It consists of a most assiduously hoisted artistically printed and illustrated 16-page paper and tied with an olive green silk cord. The lettering is embossed in gold and a very unique design has been chosen for the cover. The latter is cut out so as to form a sort of frame and in this is inset a spray of flowers and leaves from the Rocky Mountains park the purple flowers of the heather against the wood-brown background making a very attractive colour combination.

It will no doubt be a matter of surprise to many to learn that Canada possesses a heather of her own. This is called a "poor" relation of the British heather, but has a family connection and standing of its own well recognized by botanists, and its nearly added to the wealth of the British Isles. The booklet gives an interesting account of the locality from which the specimen was gathered, Simpson passing about thirty miles from Blandford, and ome early homes from which and come of the legends and stories connected with the heather in other lands. Its main purpose, however, is to call the attention of Canadians to the national parks of the Dominion, not only to the attractions they offer to force who are able to visit them, but also to their value in the national life. Their commercial potentialities are somewhat startling. It is pointed out that owing to the increasing modern taste for travel striking scenery has become one of the most valuable sources of revenue a nation can possess. The tourist revenue of Switzerland and per year is placed at 150 millions of dollars, that of France at 600 millions, that of Italy at over 100 millions. The sum which Americans annually spend abroad is estimated at the enormous total of five hundred million dollars would appear, therefore, that the creation of national parks, which are one of the best means of attracting and providing for tourist travel, may well be considered as it is now being

It is on other grounds than the commercial, however, that the park's claim to recognition. These great natural reserves are reservoirs of vitality for the race. As an antidote the ills of over-civilization and the complex life of modern cities, they offer the opportunity for life in the wilderness and the best sort of recreation where fresh air, sunshine and beautiful natural scenery are combined. The problem of the preservation of the

...sity of the race is admitted by a conservationist, today, to be the first of all conservation problems, and the value of parks, playgrounds and recreation in this respect is each year being given a larger place.

The educational and patriotic influence of the parks is also touched upon as well as the work which the Dominion parks branch is doing in the reservation of native wild life in connection with the buffalo, elk, antelope, etc., as well as bird life. There is also arks would reserve large areas where people would be free to go for as long as they desired. Such parks would be a reality, "people's estates" and would afford to the ordinary citizen any of the advantages which the owner of wealth possesses in his country estate. In the words of the book, let them be "places where the poor could get a summer cottage or a camp site for a nominal rental, where boys and men could camp and fish and

The natives on Attu Island, the easternmost of the Aleutian chain in Alaska, are dying rapidly, and soon the island will be entirely depopulated, according to officers of the revenue cutter Unalga, which has returned from Capt. H. C. Hamlet, commander of the Unalga, said large numbers of the Aleuts on Attu are dying of disease, the mortality during the winter and spring being especially heavy.

Street Railways

We Can Prove It

Lieut. Westmore Weds

It was a quiet but pretty wedding which took place at the home of R. M. and Mrs. Larkin, on Tuesday, evening, Jan. 19th, when Lieut. Chas. H. Westmore, of the signalling corps, 31st battalion, 2nd Canadian contingent, was married to Miss Isabel Towell, of Claresholm, the Rev. Wm. McNichol conducting the ceremony. The bride was becomingly attired in a travelling suit of navy blue and was attended by Mrs. R. M. Larkin. The groom was assisted by Sidney Todd. The newlyweds stole a march on their friends by motoring to Stavelly and taking the evening train for Calgary thus avoiding the exuberant congratulations. Lieut. Westmore, formerly a captain of "A" Squadron, 23rd Alberta Rangers, and the bride have a host of friends in this town and district who extend their heartiest congratulations. The Advertiser wishes for Lieut. and Mrs. Westmore a felicitous journey home.

Canadian Soldiers Poetic

No. 2 of the "2nd Battalion Bulletin" of the Canadian Expeditionary Force (editor, Signaller Crean) is a special Christmas number, in which the editor apologizes, quite unnecessarily, for possible crudeness in his publication. With its freight of poetry, illustrations, and quite admirable letterpress the "Bulletin" is a welcome souvenir of our fighting brothers from overseas. The poetry, it may be added, is in every case anonymous. "The Kaiser's Fate" is the most fantastic of all. Here are four verses, appraisal of the blithe spirit of the Canadian boys on Salisbury Plain; We fired some rounds of marmalade, some doughnuts, hard as rocks. We wadded 'em down with blankets, with wrist-bands, and with socks. We fired a handsome custard-pie, a deuce soft-soaked dum-dum: We brought it there from Valcartier to use in Bel-gi-um. The enemy was starvin', and they were filled with woe. We put canned salmon in our gun and fired it at the foe. They all come in to breakfast—by millions they did come To meet the boys from Valcartier that went to Bel-gi-um. The Germans they surrendered, their eyes were full of tears. They hadn't had so much to eat for many, many years. They asked us in amazement, "Where do youse folks come from?" We said "We come from Valcartier to visit Bel-gi-um."

Oh! with our store of doughnuts, our pumpkin-pie, and jam, Our stock of food, canned salmon, our bread, cheese, and ham, We all have come from Canada, and we will make it hum: We'll capture all of Europe as well as Bel-gi-um.

—English exchange.

31st Soon To Leave Calgary

The signs of the times all point to an early movement on the part of the 31st battalion now in camp at Victoria park here. For some time, it has been thought that the troops would leave Calgary for another training centre in England some time in February, but from the way things are shaping it will be a great surprise to many if Col. Bell's battalion is here longer than the end of January.—Calgary News-Telegram.

More Valuable as Feed

The Farm and Ranch Review says: "In the feeding trials conducted by Mr. G. H. Hutton at Lacombe frozen wheat fed to hogs turned out to be worth 1.10 per bushel when the hogs sold for $6.00 per cent. This raises the question as to how much better off we are now to sell good wheat at a dollar or less and sacrifice hogs at the ruling prices."

Your choice of ANY SIX BOOKS from this list will be sent post paid to your address FREE if you send in one yearly subscription to The Claresholm Advertiser or The Stavelly Advertiser at $1.50 per year.
